CHRISTMAS CAROLS SUNG BY CHILDREN OF GRADE SCHOOL

Burning Taper Serves As Invitation To Favor
With Song.

Reminding one of old European countries pupils of the seventh and eighth grade of the Antioch schools, Wednesday night walked through the north part of town singing Christmas carols. The air was filled with strains of "The First Noel," "Silent Night, Holy Night," "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," and other old Christmas songs.

A candle burning in the window was an invitation to sing a song. The students were accompanied by Miss Ius E. Royal and Miss Dorothy Patterson. Tonight the group will sing in the south part of the village. Remember the burning taper!

BANQUET IS PLANNED FOR NEXT THURSDAY

More Than Hundred Are Expected To Attend
Yearly Meeting.

The Alumni association of Antioch High school will hold its annual meeting and dinner next Thursday, December 27, in the high school cafeteria. The dinner will be prepared under the supervision of the Home Economics department and served by the boys of the sophomore and junior classes.

An interesting group of speakers has been invited for the occasion. Judge Walter Taylor of Waukegan will be present with his well known humor. W. S. Adams, former principal, and now instructor in the University of Illinois, will return to bring greetings. Victor Down, one of the youngest and most ardent exponents of wit will present musings of his travels. The presidents of the classes of 1928 and 1929 will also be present.

There were 112 present last year and the indications are that there will be an increase this year.

Albert Herman as president, has his committees working diligently to perfect plans. Mrs. Mildred Mann has sent out invitations to all members.

Hail! The Heroine!

Boy Is Rescued By Girl
While Several Youths
Watch.

Stories of old Europe tell of the handsome hero rescuing the maiden fair, but how times do change! In Antioch 'tis the maiden fair rescuing the handsome hero.

The principals in this little play are Billy Gray and Jane Warriner. Billie likes to skate, so last week when the ice froze on Drom's pond, Billy and some of his friends went down to the edge of the pond to look matters over. Billy decided to try the ice, but alas! near the middle the ice was thin—too thin. Crash! Down went Billie. He attempted to get out, but the ice would break wherever Billy tried to climb upon it. All of Billy's companions looked helpless—all but Jane. Jane hurried, got a long pole, and stuck it out to Billy, and lo! Billy was rescued.

When asking about it, one of Billy's friends questioned:

"Did you get wet all over, Billy?"

"UNDOUBTEDLY," Billy grinned sarcastically.

The Christmas program and party in the first and second grades will be held at 1:30 o'clock with Mrs. Charles Lux and Miss Elizabeth Tonton in charge. The program will include plays, songs, and recitations by the children.

A BIT OF COLOR

Seldom does one see color in the Antioch News or even in the largest city dailies, but this week Fred B. Swanson advertises his "pride of the Lake Region" in red and green—extending the public Christmas greetings.

Mr. Swanson wanted to reach all of his friends and he chose the best way to do it—through the Antioch News, and he chose such a colorful way, too!

Mr. Swanson's idea is an innovation in the advertising world. He enjoys trying something new—something different.

Is he successful? Judge for yourself, but take our word, that he is.

TRADITIONAL PLAY TO BE PRESENTED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Christmas Tree and Santa Claus Will Also Be Features Of Day.

"Spirit of Christmas" is the play to be presented tomorrow afternoon in the high school auditorium when the traditional Christmas party and program will be held.

Robert King is to have the leading role, and he will be supported by Leonard Kahl, William Nelson, Lila Hawkins, and several persons with minor parts. The play reveals the spirit of charity. Although there is but one act there are two scenes—the first in a wood-chunter's hut and the second at a church in a church.

A Christmas tree will occupy a prominent place in the gymnasium. A stocking filled with nuts and candy will be given each student. Students have drawn names of other students, and a gift exchange is to be made by Santa Claus. No gift is to cost more than 25 cents. The students have each donated five cents to pay for the tree and the trimmings, and the other expenses are to be borne by the faculty members.

The high school orchestra is to furnish music for the program. The combined Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs will sing the Hallelujah chorus.

LEADERSHIP SUBJECT OF TALK DELIVERED TO SCHOOL PUPILS

Arthur Maplethorpe Gives Third Of Series Of Addresses For Legion.

"Good health, physical strength and moral strength are the three most essential qualities in the development of true leadership," Past Commander A. Maplethorpe said Monday afternoon when he talked to students of the Grade school on "Leadership." This was the third of a series of talks being sponsored by the Antioch Post of the American Legion.

Good health was stressed by Mr. Maplethorpe as being the most important qualification. Good health means having a clean mind and an attractive, virile personality, he said. "Physical strength goes hand in hand with good health," the speaker continued, "and is seldom found without it. And from my observation of men, moral strength goes hand in hand with the other two. Immorality, physical weakness, and lack of health are often found together, and there are those who believe that the greatest proportion of criminals are more in need of training in the rules of hygiene and health than they are in need of being locked in jails."

Mr. Maplethorpe added: "There must be originality of thought and action. One must formulate his own ideas which have been developed through reading and through every day contact with men, and if the ideas formulated are sensible, well planned ideas, they will be respected by one's friends."

Honor is needed. "There must also be steadfastness in the character of one desiring to be a leader. There must be that ability to hold fast to an idea or ideal. Along with steadfastness goes loyalty. Loyalty is the ability to stand for one's friends and beliefs and to work wholeheartedly for the accomplishment of a purpose."

"Honor, too, is a necessary attribute of leadership. One must feel a sincere dislike for any dishonest or dishonorable act. In the business world today there are men whose sense of honor is so blunted that they will stoop to almost any dishonesty to make more money. Fortunately, that is not true of most of the great leaders of finance, and in future years it is going to be harder and harder for a man to develop into a leader of finance, who has not placed honor first above everything. Honor and respect will come to any person who has respected and honored those with whom he comes in contact."

"Developing the traits of leadership is not so hard a task, that one never knows when an emergency will arise that will call forth every bit of leadership in one's makeup, and that minding one's own business may, in a certain sense, be a great discredit instead of a virtue. Every

FLU CONDITIONS NOT AS SERIOUS IN GRADE SCHOOL

Flu conditions in the Antioch Grade school have not been as serious as in the Antioch High school, reports from the two schools revealed today.

Only two grade school teachers have been ill and had to miss school. Miss Elizabeth Tonton and Miss Dorothy Patterson each missed two days. The third grade has had the most absentees during the epidemic.

In the high school teachers who have been ill are L. W. Peterson, Miss Hedvig Rice, Miss Leona Miller, Fred Hackett, and Miss Alice Smith. The janitors, Murry Horton and Earl Horton have also been ill. Dozens of students have been absent each day.

The Baden lecture course number scheduled for last Monday night, was postponed.

The lodge was treated to an oyster supper by H. R. Adams.

GAMES ARE FEATURE OF PARTY TUESDAY

Twenty-five were present at the Professional Council dinner which was held in the Guild hall Tuesday night.

The program consisted of a recitation by W. C. Petty, the reading of Dickens's Christmas Carol by Miss Ius E. Royal, a balloon relay race, balloon volley ball, the singing of Christmas carols, and the exchange of gifts.

Miss Mary Hynck, C. L. Kuttel, and A. M. Kahl were in charge of the entertainment, and the women of the Episcopal church served the dinner.

Petty Spends Day Studying System Used in Winnetka

To study the internationally famous Winnetka Public School system, W. C. Petty, principal of the Antioch Grade school; T. A. Simpson, county superintendent of schools, and J. L. Miller, Fox Lake, principal of the Ingleside school, went to Winnetka Thursday. The Horace Mann, the Skokie, and the Hubbard-Wood schools were visited.

The Winnetka schools are operated upon an individual basis which permits each child to progress at his own natural rate—not forced too rapidly by those who are quicker, nor held back by those who are slower. Promotion is by subjects. A child may be promoted in reading at one time, for instance, and in arithmetic at quite another. Promotion does not involve a change of rooms necessarily.

A pupil cannot "fail" as in other schools. He may take more than a year to do a grade's work, but he will never have to repeat the grade. Each autumn he begins where he left off the preceding spring. His progress is continuous and strictly individual.

Besides the individual work there are a considerable number of group and creative activities.

There is a column of goals for each subject. Opposite the column is a column of blanks in which the teacher records the date when each goal is reached. There are no "report" cards.

Mr. Petty, in commenting on the system said:

"The plan followed by the Winnetka schools is one of the most discussed systems in the educational world today. If a child is going to spend all of his school life in Winnetka there is no question that the system is a superior one. Where there are many transient pupils, however, it would be difficult to follow the plan."

Two dollars. That is approximately what a dinner with the foregoing menu should cost—to serve six persons. And the dinner is not only a well-balanced and delicious one, but is colorful as well.

Two cans of tomato soup would be needed. These would cost 20 cents; cheese crackers, five cents; sausages, Vienna style, 45 cents; apples, 15 cents; wax beans (20 cents for can and 9 cents for other ingredients) making 29 cents; vanilla wafers, 10 cents; rolls and butter, 20 cents; cranberry ice, 33 cents; coffee, 10 cents, making a total of $1.90, and leaving 10 cents for fuel and condiments.

Because the dinner is rather a heavy one, the soup should be diluted with water instead of milk. The sausages and the red-skinned apples are sautéed in the ordinary way.

To prepare the beans, bring the can of beans to boil in their own liquid. Then drain, reserving one-half cup of the liquid. To make the sauce, melt two tablespoons butter, add two tablespoons flour and pour on the bean juice. Add one-fourth cup vinegar, one-fourth cup cream, one teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick, then add the beans, heat and serve.

In making the cranberry ice, boil one-fourth cup sugar and three-fourths cup water to a syrup and dissolve it in one-half tablespoon gelatin which has been soaked in two tablespoons cold water. Add two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup orange juice, and one small can (about a no. 2) of cranberry sauce which has been well mashed. When cool, freeze to a mush, add one well-

TOMATOES INCREASE IN POPULARITY EACH YEAR—CANNED, FRESH

Don't tomatoes—canned ones—taste good this time of the year—and all winter, for that matter? Nearly every home in Antioch, perhaps, has canned tomatoes in the fruit cupboard. Tomatoes are becoming more popular each year—in the west, in the east, in the south, and in the north.

Speaking of the west, it takes the alkali dust of a cattle range and a cowboy's throat to raise a really royal thirst. And nothing will assuage this thirst as quickly and as satisfactorily as a can of tomatoes. Government rangers, too, use a great many tomatoes.

Dr. E. V. McCullum, Johns Hopkins university, recently wrote: "The tomato is a vegetable which has just come into its own in recent years. Modern investigations have shown it to be an exceptionally rich source of at least three vitamins, A, B, and C."

Dr. McCullum also wrote of the increasing use of tomato juice for young children:

"Orange juice is the best for them and is now recommended by physicians wherever the fruit can be obtained. Tomato juice is the best other source of vitamin C for infants. There is no choice between orange and tomato juice."

Did You Ever Try
These Recipes?
Do, Please.

Did you ever try a combination of corn and salmon? You won't be sorry if you do.

Mix a number 2 can of corn with one tablespoon of melted butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one small can of salmon, and one tablespoon heavy cream. Bake in a buttered baking dish in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Persons who wish something more exotic should try this recipe for Lobster and Green Pea Newburg:

Make a white sauce of one and one-half tablespoons of butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, and one and one-half cups of milk. Season with salt and paprika. Add two small cans or one large can of lobster. The lobster should not be broken into small pieces. Add half a can of peas and one slightly beaten egg yolk. The liquor should be drained from the peas. Add to the peas and lobster mixture one tablespoon of lemon juice and serve in patty cases.

Cross Shines Out

High above the tomb known as the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, Palestine, shines out each night a cross of gleaming light.

Placed at the top of the dome on the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the cross is studded with electric light bulbs operated from an individual electric light plant of the same type used on more than 300,000 American farms, and is visible from many parts of the great city. The church has been erected directly above the tomb and is one of the famous and historical buildings of the Holy Country.

FRUIT PESTS PREFER
WINTER HOMES, SURVEY
BY SPECIALIST SHOWSValuable Clew is Offered
Orchardists Regarding Sanitation.

Urbana, Dec. 20.—Recent discoveries with regard to the life and habits of the codling moth and other serious fruit pests give orchardists a valuable clew for more effective winter orchard sanitation and a consequent reduction of insect damage the following season, S. C. Chandler, assistant entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History survey, has just reported to the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

In the studies which Chandler made during the past two winters he found that worms of the codling moth much preferred to spin their cocoons on such man-made articles as old boards, fertilizer sacks, old papers, corrugated cardboard cushions and old picking crates left scattered around under trees, rather than spin them on old prunings and pieces of bark.

Studies just begun with the oriental fruit moth indicate that the state's newest peach pest has acquired similar habits, Chandler reported. In a tree caged for experimental purposes, three-fourths of the worms chose a single mauling tube left on the ground. One hundred twenty of the worms were found cocooned in and through the tube.

"For the orchardist this carries a striking lesson that trash of all kinds in the orchard should be picked up and burned. Thus, during the winter while the many orchard pests sleep, the grower can take advantage of their inactivity by removing many from the orchard and rendering others harmless.

"In this connection it has been noticed that codling moth infestation is worse around packing sheds. Hence an important preventive measure with this insect is to screen such buildings if their construction makes this possible. What happens in packing sheds is that the worms crawl out of the discarded cull fruit and find quite agreeable quarters in cardboard pads, crates of baskets, barrels, the corners of the building and other tight places. ALL ABOUT WHAT THE
LITTLE CHILDREN ARE DOING IN ANIMAL WORLD

BY V. LUDEL BODEN

"Why, Johnny Ape," exclaimed Mr. Brownie Rabbit, "why on earth are you sitting on the curbstone with your hands on top of your head?"

"I have on my thinking cap," Johnny said, "and I am trying very, very hard to think what I shall buy as Christmas presents for everyone."

"Well, well," Mr. Brownie Rabbit said, "perhaps I can help you if you will help me think what to buy my two children, Pinkie-nose and Sibble-nibble."

"Agreed," said Johnnie as he took his hands from his head, since he didn't need his thinking cap when he could think out loud. A thinking cap, boys and girls, as you know, is made by placing your hands tent-shaped on top of your head. The next time you can't remember or you want to think of something very, very much put on your thinking cap and see how easily you can think. Well, anyway, Johnnie and Mr. Rabbit decided to talk about Christmas.

"What do you want Santa Claus to bring you?" Mr. Rabbit asked Johnnie.

"Oh, I'll tell you," Johnnie said and he named a bicycle, a drum, some books, some high rubber boots, a bright red sweater and—

"Whoa, whoa!" Mr. Rabbit said laughingly. "You needn't name anything else. It doesn't seem any trouble for you to decide what you want for yourself so I should think that some of the things you would like to receive would be nice things for you to give some of your friends."

"That's a good idea," Johnny Ape said and he clapped his hands he was so very, very happy.

"But listen," Mr. Rabbit said, "don't forget that you promised you would help me think of gifts for my two children, Pinkie-nose and Sibble-nibble."

"Why don't you give them some of the things that I would like to have?" Johnnie Ape asked. "Then if we all three had the same things, Pinkie-nose and Sibble-nibble and I could all play together with all our things."

"And if you don't get what you want I suppose you could enjoy playing with Pinkie-nose's and Sibble-nibble's playthings?" Mr. Rabbit asked.

ed Johnny Ape. Then Johnny Ape and Mr. Rabbit both laughed.

Then Sibble-nibble's and Pinkie-nose's father said "I think, Johnny, your suggestion is a good one, though, and I shall get my children bicycles and bright red sweaters."

Then Mr. Rabbit said he had to hurry and Johnny was left alone.

Johnny thought he had better go down to the stores to do his shopping. When he arrived in one of the shops he said to himself "I must remember to buy things to give away that I would like to have for myself."

Of course, Johnny Ape meant all right but guess what he bought? He bought his mother a drum, his father a football, his aunt some builder toys, and his grandmother some boy-momkey's boots—bright red ones with black tassels.

Oh, Johnny is so happy with his purchases he doesn't know what to do. He can scarcely wait until Christmas. He has all of the presents tied in tissue paper and hidden in a drawer in his chamber.

And Johnny hasn't realized yet that he was really buying Christmas presents for himself! Of course Mrs. Ape can't use a drum, and Mr. Ape is getting too old to kick a football, and Johnny's aunt wouldn't have fun playing with builder toys, and can you imagine Grandmother Ape wearing scarlet boots? Well—just wait until Christmas. But the funny thing is going to be when Johnny finds out that Santa Claus is going to bring him everything for which he has asked. What on earth will he do with two drums and two footballs? I'll tell you what I think he will do. I think he will give one of each thing to some poor boys who didn't have much for Christmas. Wouldn't that be kind of Johnny Ape?

MOST ILLINOIS FARMS HAVE CARS ACCORDING TO NEW STATISTICS

Tabulation of Mechanical Equipment Made By C. Of C.

Eighty-five per cent of all farms in Illinois have automobiles; 13.3 two or more automobiles; 11.9 per cent have trucks. Putting it another way, on 193,936 farms you will find one motor car, on 30,017 you will find more than one and on 26,879 you will find motor trucks.

These figures are announced by the research department of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which has just completed a tabulation of mechanical equipment on Illinois farms. This brings out basic data from official sources and arranged in convenient form for the business man interested in the farm market in Illinois.

Here are some more interesting figures:

Thirty-seven thousand and seventy farms are equipped with electricity which is 16.4 per cent. Of these the farmers on 22,756 farms own their own electric plants which is 10.1 per cent and 14,314 or 6.3 per cent get their current from power lines. Acetylene lighting systems are operated on 12,479 or 5.5 per cent of the farms and 26,876 farms or 11.5 per cent of them have plumbing systems classified as "complete." A total of 30,921 or 9.3 per cent of the farms in Illinois have septic tanks for sewage disposal.

Mechanically operated water systems on Illinois farms are classified as follows: electric, 12,846 or 5.7 per cent; gas engine, 27,528 or 12.2 per cent and windmills, 38,357 or 16.1 per cent. Forty-two and six tenths of the farm houses, or 96,164 have sinks and pumps in the kitchen.

Heating systems classified as modern are in 57,508 or 25.6 per cent of all Illinois farm homes. These are classified as: warm air, 44,779 or 19.8 per cent; hot water, 9,726 or 4.3 per cent and steam, 3,003 or 1.5 per cent. The farmer for many years has been criticized for the treatment he gives his machinery. The investigation shows that 63.4 per cent of all Illinois farms have machinery sheds and that 48.1 per cent of all farms house all machinery while 31.2 per cent house part of the machinery.

Fifty-nine and six tenths of all farms have sulky plow or gang plow equipment of some kind and 25.0 per cent have tractor plows. A total of 61,398 farms or 27.2 per cent are possessed of tractors while 26.4 per cent of the tractor owners are more or less equipped to do their own tractor repair work. Of all farms, 99.8 per cent have some sort of plow.

Sixty-six and six tenths of all farms have cream separators but only 3.1 per cent have power milking machines. Power used to operate grain binders is divided this way: horse-drawn, 62.4 per cent; tractor drawn, 13.3 per cent of all farms. Power shredders and huskers are used on 9.4 per cent of the farms.

Other interesting facts gleaned are: Fifty and nine-tenths per cent of all the farm homes in Illinois are now equipped with radio and 40.8 per cent have incubators.

NEW STYLE SHELLER IS USED FOR SMALL JOBS; CONVENIENT

Has Higher Capacity Than Hand or Power Spring Devices.

A small cylinder corn sheller which can be operated with a two and one-half or three horsepower gas engine, or with the tractor, is of special convenience and use to live stock feeders who do not need a larger individual sheller or do not feed enough shelled corn to make it profitable to call in a custom sheller-man. A sheller of this type has a higher capacity than a hand or small power spring sheller, as it shells 50 to 75 bushels per hour under average conditions, according to the research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers. The small cylinder sheller can be equipped with an automatic feeder, an elevator to put the corn in a wagon or bin and a cob stacker. If a more inexpensive sheller is desired, this same machine can be obtained with only a hopper to receive the ears and a screen to separate the cobs from the shelled corn.

Duty.

Robert E. Lee wrote in a letter to his son that "duty is the sublime word in the English language." To do one's duty as one sees it is the secret of thoughtful and successful living. It sounds simple and is simple, but it is extremely difficult. Mistakenly we seek rest and comfort by shirking duty. Strange that we find it so hard to learn that the path of duty is the way to rest.—Grove Patterson in the Mobile Register

Shaman Worship.

Shamanism was originally a primitive religion of the peoples of northern Asia and Europe, in which the unseen world of gods, demons and ancestral spirits is believed to have been responsive only to the Shamans, magicians, who were also mediums. The term is also applied to any similar religion, as that of some of the American Indians, where the medicine man performed the same function.

There is no mistake about Christmas being close at hand. Everywhere the Christmas spirit is in evidence. The adults as well as the children are looking forward to the celebration. First around the Community tree, later in the churches and and best of all in the home. The celebration in the Methodist church will begin Sunday morning with the preaching service at 10:45. The choir is planning to sing one of the great Christmas Carols which warm the heart of the most matter of fact man. Following the sermon all will be invited to partake of the Holy Communion.

The evening service will be a Christmas service of song and story with a young people's chorus heralding the story of the First Christmas on the plains and the story of every man's Christmas.

Monday evening after the gathering at the community tree, which is at 6:30 o'clock, the Church school will present Mother Goose. Old Santa will visit the school and meet every boy and girl present and possibly remember him with a token. The general public will find a welcome at all of these services.

Rex Bonser, Mgr.

A lot of folks think there is too much "muss" in Christmas but even if we don't believe in Santa Claus, we do believe in Christmas.

These are the days you have to hand it to the kids. And the most of us are not worrylark about the future, but the present.

Two little urchins were watching the barber shave a customer's hair. "Gee!" said one, "he's hunting them with a light."

Don't hold out on Dad, give him a ton of our coal or coke and then he will know there is a Santa Claus.

Let's see, where did we put that list of persons who sent us something last year?

Lady: "Please put some chains on my auto tires, the streets are so slippery."

"Sorry, Madam, but we only handle groceries."

"Oh, dear me! I heard this was a chain store."

We will be glad to publish news about our local churches, schools and different societies in this paper. Just phone or bring them in—we want to be useful.

A balloon ascended had just taken place and a tiny girl among the spectators turned to her mother with the query: "Mother, is God expecting these gentlemen?"

Hardwood floors make housekeeping easy. Ask the wives who have them.

Merry Christmas! We wish that we could call around and shake each one of you by the hand and wish to you personally, or at least send everyone in this community an engraved greeting card, but we might miss someone. So we will just broadcast this little message to you all. A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

TWO ANTIOCH TEAMS DEFEAT AGGREGATIONS FROM BENSENVILLE

First String Men Roll Up 29 Counters To Six Of Visitors.

Continuing their guarding game, the Antioch High school basketball team of the first team defeated Bensenville's aggregation by the score of 29 to 6, while the local second team won over the Bensenville second quintet 25 to 4 in the Antioch gymnasium Friday night.

Antioch has not so far this season displayed any outstanding scorers. Six of the 10 players in the game entered the scoring column. Floor work is gradually becoming noticeable.

Bensenville played a good passing game, but found that making baskets was impossible with the close guarding which Antioch boasted. Stolke was the star for the visitors making all of their points but one in his position as running guard. He should develop into a whiz of a player before the season is over.

Sheehan, Antioch, was unable to play as he was seriously ill with the influenza and threatened with pneumonia. Others on the squad—Steininger, Wertz, Mastine and Murrie—had been ill during the week.

Waukegan will send two teams to Antioch Saturday night. The Waukegan seconds—the heavyweights—will meet the local first team, and the Waukegan freshmen will play the Antioch seconds. Antioch won both football games from Waukegan, and now the Waukegan boys come with blood in their eyes to seek revenge. Coach Jack Morley, who is in charge of the Waukegan freshmen, always has his players in the best shape possible, and it is probable that the Antioch seconds will have a stiff battle, as the first year men, too, want to revenge the defeat in football.

The game for Saturday night has been scheduled so that college students who have returned to Antioch may see the local boys in action.

Conservation.

An economical mother has a young son who persists in bringing his chains to the apple bin in the cellar. She told the generous lad to have the boys eat the mellow ones. He was heard telling the young hungry tribe: "Now, be sure and eat the mellow ones, because mother wants to keep the good ones."

JACK STEARNS ONLY MISSES BY TWO

Eleven nearest guesses as to the number of beans in a jar containing 2,635 beans which the King Drug company has had on display, follow: Jack Stearns—2,638; Pete Peterson—2,642; Shellburn Flood—2,620; A. G. Hartnell—2,689; S. Dibble—2,575; Ward Edwards—2,564; Edna Mae Snyder—2,727; Ernest Leashle—2,742; Billy Brook, Mrs. Fern Gikerson, and Mrs. Watson, each 2,500.

The one who guessed most nearly the number was to have $25 credit toward the purchase of a radio from Mr. King.

"It is possible," Mr. King said after the count had been made, "that several of the nearest guessers will not care or are not in a position to take advantage of the credit toward the purchase of a radio. Those who would take advantage of the offer are asked to please notify King's Drug store. Of those who report, the nearest guesser will be allowed the credit."

Maplethorpe Talks to Pupils on "Leadership"

day of one's life one is called on to make decisions, choose which way to act, and it is these decisions which develop one's character and establish the traits of leadership.

"These decisions are important for several reasons. No one knows just what fate has in store. General Grant probably did not expect to be commander-in-chief of the Union Army of the Civil War, Lincoln did not expect to have to guide this country through the most trying period in its history, General Pershing did not expect to be commander in charge of the American Forces in the World War, but each had lived his life in such a way that when the need arose they were ready with experience and character to take their places and each did his duty to the best of his ability.

"Need of leadership occurs sometimes in every day life, and the lack of a leader may cause terrible and never to be forgotten tragedies. Quoting from the recent report of the Federal Commission who examined witnesses and came to a decision in regard to the sinking of the Vestris, we find these words: 'It is incomprehensible that so much incompetence could be loaded into one boat. The crew was fairly good, but they were not led. The passengers were very tractable, but no one told them what to do. And the reports accuse Captain Carey of bad seamanship and lack of leadership, with the result of the loss of over a hundred lives.'

SILVER LAKE BEATS LOCAL QUINTET, 17-14

Antioch Men Outplay Opponents In Second Period But Lose Game.

Defeat at the hands of the Silver Lake independent team was suffered by the Antioch quintet Friday night in the Wilmet gymnasium. The score was 17 to 14.

At the end of the first half Silver Lake had a score of nine and Antioch two. Antioch started the second period with renewed energy and outplayed the opponents throughout the period, but lost the game by two baskets. Two of the first string men were out with the flu.

A practice game played by the local high school aggregation and the local independents this week, showed that both are developing rapidly, displaying better floor work.

The next independent game is to be with the Alumni team, but the date has not been set.

First Lyceum Number Will Be January 7

Because of the flu situation, the first number of the Lyceum Course was postponed until sometime in February. This means that the first number of the course will be Monday, January 7, when the Tooley Opera company with a cast of six, presents the comic opera, "The Beggar King." Mr. Tooley is not only a musician but is also a comedian of rare ability. He was at the high school about a year ago, giving a talk to the students. It was because of the favorable impression that he made that he was asked to return with his company of singers.

What DO We Mean?

We Americans have a happy habit of saying things we do not mean. Ever stop to think of it?

Take, for example, a Turkish bath -- absolutely unknown in Turkey. Irish stew does not exist in Ireland. There is no lead in lead pencils and no wax in sealing wax.

Kid gloves are made of lamb skin and Java coffee comes from South Africa. Brussels carpet never comes from Brussels.

And so it goes.

Now, with the so-called happy season of the year practically in our midst, as you might say, it is considered quite the thing to voice to friendly customer and prospect the well-worn --

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Up to the moment of writing this I've been unable to think of any other phrase to take the place of Merry Christmas to you.

But there does not seem to be anything else to take its place -- so I just want you to know -- I mean it!

WE'RE IN FAVOR

Eleven states have drivers license laws, and now Illinois is considering the adoption of a similar measure. THE ANTIOCH NEWS is heartily in favor of such a law—a law which every state should have.

A drivers' license law, with examination of new drivers, properly administered by a centralized department, may be expected to reduce motor vehicle fatalities by about 20 per cent. This conclusion was recently reached by National Safety Council statisticians who have made careful studies over a long period in states where license laws have been in operation.

License laws without examination of new drivers are not effective, however. Statistics show that the laws themselves have not reduced fatalities to any great extent.

Perhaps every reader knows of a friend or of some one, indirectly, who bought a new car, took a lesson or two from the salesman, and decided to take the machine out by himself. Within a few minutes there was a smashed up automobile, probably injured driver, and maybe a pedestrian killed or hurt. Such cases would be unheard of had the driver been given an examination first.

The Illinois legislature will consider the question this winter. Certainly such a law will be—and should be—adopted.

INFLUENZA AGAIN

Influenza is reported in epidemic proportions in some of the western states. It is a very contagious disease to which most people are susceptible. Modern methods of transportation make the transmission of infection an easy matter, and it is not unlikely that the malady will appear soon in many sections of the country in more or less serious form.

Influenza, according to the Illinois State Medical society, is an acute, infectious disease with sudden onset, fever, chills, headache, neuralgic and muscular pains, and intestinal disorders. There may be soreness of the throat and a cough, but those symptoms may be mild. The outstanding characteristic is the prostration from which the patient suffers—a feeling of extreme weakness, weariness, and depression which is out of all proportion to the other symptoms.

In an uncomplicated case of influenza, the fever lasts from three to seven days. Then the symptoms leave, with the exception of the prostration, which may make convalescence a slow and tedious process. Unfortunately, one attack does not confer immunity and reinfection may occur at short intervals.

Even though the attack may be mild, influenza is a dangerous illness because of the complications which are likely to accompany or follow it. It is very frequently complicated by pneumonia and middle ear infections, while individuals who have suffered from it are particularly susceptible to respiratory and heart troubles.

Research has given little that is practical in the way of preventing influenza. There is no reliable data regarding the period during which an individual can transmit the disease and no vaccine or serum has been perfected that can be absolutely relied upon to confer immunity. So far as present knowledge goes, the most valuable measures in guarding against it lie in building up bodily resistance to the point where one will not easily fall prey to infection and in avoiding contact with individuals who may have the disease. Since it is practically impossible for the average person to distinguish between a mild case of influenza and a common cold, everyone who appears to be suffering with an ordinary influenza is prevalent.

When there are cases of influenza in the community, keep away from crowds, especially indoor gatherings. Be more than ordinarily careful to wash your hands frequently—always before eating—and never put unwashed hands in the mouth or near the nostrils.

Build up resistance by keeping in the open air and sunshine as much as possible, and by having home, office, or workshop well ventilated. Avoid over-exertion and try to secure an extra hour or two of sleep during the twenty-four, sleeping with the windows open. Eat plenty of good, nourishing food, but do not overeat. Keep the body comfortably warm, but do not overheat it with heavy garments.

All is simple to a simpleton.

Brains count—if you are willing to work.

It's about as hard to hire as it is to fire.

A sense of humor is the real fountain of youth.

A business career never lowered the stature of any real gentleman.

Glowing enthusiasm, even though misguided, is better than languid unconcern.

How quickly a large family adjusts itself to an increase in the breadwinner's income!

In the survival of the fittest we fear the automobile will win out against the pedestrian.

A self-acknowledged failure often supports his egotism by pretending an indifference to success. An excess of work is not as bad as an excess of fool, but a fatal combination is an excess of both work and fool.

Kindly remember: the thermometer on the front window of The News office is broken and has been broken for a long, long time. Each day several persons, in going by, stop to see what the mercury registers. It is amusing to watch these persons, but it is more amusing to see the same persons look at the thermometer every day—and each time grin in a disgusted manner. Can you blame them—for grinning.

Seems strange, doesn't it, not to have house numbers? If trying to tell a stranger in Antioch where one lives, it is necessary to say: for example:

"On Main street, south of Lake, so many houses below some place, and across from some place, and the house is a green one with a small piazza, and so many steps."

True, isn't it? But if one could only say the residence was located at 16 South Main street—how matters would be simplified!

Original Model Gone.

The original cotton gin built by Eli Whitney was stolen from Mulberry Grove and nothing is known as to its subsequent history. Whitney himself made another model, which was sent to the patent office in Philadelphia, then the seat of the national government. His first twenty made for the trade were burned.

Lumber for Boxes.

Knotty lumber will make a box with short, thick sides more resistant to rough handling than clear lumber. Added to the other advantages of using knotty lumber in boxes is the low cost of such lumber. Of prime importance, also, is the fact that the use of knotty lumber for boxes provides an outlet for low grade lumber.

DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW IS PROPOSED FOR THIS STATE

Salient Points Are Given For Measure To Be Considered.

Salient points of the proposed drivers' license law which may be adopted this winter by the Illinois legislature follow:

No person shall drive a motor vehicle on a highway unless licensed by the state vehicle department, except those driving road or farm machinery or operating an official vehicle of the U. S. Army or Navy.

Non-residents over sixteen years of age are exempt from the license law, but may drive their own cars for 30 days.

Licenses are not issued to persons under sixteen or chauffeurs' licenses to persons under eighteen, nor to habitual drunkards, drug addicts, those insane or feeble minded, those unable to understand signs in English, and those afflicted with such physical or mental disability or disease as to prevent reasonable control over a motor vehicle.

When the law is first enacted, all persons who have driven for one year may obtain a license within three months on written application, but without any examination.

Thereafter, all new drivers must first obtain a temporary instruction permit, then, within sixty days, fill out an application for license and pass the examination.

The state commissioner may designate local officials to give examinations.

The commissioner may require licensing not more than once every three years. Chauffeurs' licenses must be renewed annually.

All courts shall report to the state department all convictions for violation of motor vehicle laws and may recommend suspension of license.

The department must revoke licenses in case of manslaughter in operation of motor vehicle, driving under influence of liquor or drug, perjury in connection with the motor vehicle laws, conviction of reckless driving three times in a year, failure to stop after an accident, any felony in which a motor vehicle was used.

The department may suspend a license if it believes that one of the above mentioned offenses has been committed; that the driver has recklessly or unlawfully contributed to an accident, or that he is incompetent to drive a motor vehicle or is a habitually reckless or negligent driver.

The department may suspend or revoke the license for a similar offense committed in any other state.

Any person denied a license or whose license has been revoked may appeal to the courts.

The applications of minors under eighteen must be signed by the parent or guardian or employer who then becomes liable for any negligence in driving by such minor. Employers of minors under eighteen who permit them to drive and persons who furnish motor vehicles to such minors are likewise liable.

CLEAN, WARM WATER CHEAPEST OF FEEDS FOR GOOD POULTRY

Hens Cannot Lay Unless They Drink Heavily, Experts Declare.

Clean, warm water is the cheapest of all poultry feeds and one of the most important, according to various reports. Because the egg is 65 per cent water, hens cannot lay unless they drink heavily, something they are not likely to do if their drinking water is dirty or coated with ice.

Drinking fountains should be large enough to hold at least a half day's supply of water, say poultrymen, and numerous enough to provide plenty of drinking space for the flock. Fountains should also be sanitary and easy to keep clean. Mounting drinking vessels on stands about 15 inches from the floor helps to keep straw and litter out of the water. Flock owners who have electric lights in the poultry house find that they can fill thermos-type fountains with hot water in the evening so that it will be warm for the hens the following morning when the lights go on.

Governmental Ideals.

To preserve, to inform and to perpetuate the sources and direct in their most effective channels the streams which contribute to the public weal is the purpose for which government was instituted.—John Quincy Adams.

Commercial Heliotrope.

One of the most important perfumes for blending is the essential oil of the little sweet-smelling heliotrope. It was formerly one of the most expensive also, but it can now be made from pepper at a price a hundred times less than it cost to extract it from the flower. This has reduced the price of toilet agents, in which it is used considerably.

Imperfect Canning.

If canning of fruit is properly done they need not stand at all before moving. If difficulty is encountered from moving canned fruits, it is probable that the seams are not good and leakage results due to the agitation. Holding the fruits for a period of time after canning will not correct faulty seams.

Tight Ring Caused Death.

A tight wedding ring caused a woman's death at Nottingham, England. Owing to fattening flesh, the ring became too small and caused an abrasion of the woman's finger. The woman died from blood poisoning, which originated in the abrasion.

SANTA WAS HERE

Santa Claus himself was at the Shults and Son's store Saturday afternoon—and so were dozens and dozens and dozens of children!

In true city style, the Shults store held an "informal reception" with Santa Claus in the revolving line receiving all sorts of suggestions for gifts. Each child was given a treat—and what a treat it was to the older persons to see the children pushing, crowding, jamming, and rushing—to get to shake hands with St. Nick!

PROCEEDS AT PALACE ARE TO BE EMPLOYED FOR AIDING NEEDY

Tourney Results at Palace

Bantamweight: Johnny Benna, North Chicago, beat Shelby McDonald, Grayslake. Three rounds.

Flyweight: George James, Antioch, beat Howard O'Hara, Waukegan. Three rounds.

Welterweight: Reuben Olsen, Lake Forest, beat Harold Tenyson, Waukegan. Three rounds.

Heavyweight: Grover Cleveland Alexander, North Chicago, beat Walter Buskey, Roundout. Three rounds.

Deserving poor families of Lake county will be benefitted by the proceeds from the boxing show at the Antioch Palace tomorrow night.

Four elimination bouts were run off last Friday night. One of the best fights of the evening was when Grover Alexander, North Chicago, defeated Walter Buskey in three rounds. The loser had a tough break in the first round after being forced against the ropes and then taking some hard punches. In the second round he was the victim of a knockdown. In the third round Cleveland fought circles around Buskey, and so there wasn't any doubt in anyone's mind who should be given the decision at the end of the third.

Johnny Benna, who is to meet Eddie Peddle in his next fight, won over Shelby McDonald, Grayslake. Benna comes from North Chicago. Benna did some pretty good work.

Antioch's little fighter, James, won by several points over Howard O'Hara, Waukegan. James blooded the nose of the boxing man near the beginning of the fight.

The remaining tourney bout was between Lake Forest's Reuben Olsen and Harold Tenyson. Waukegan's Olsen outclassed the Waukeganite in every respect.

There were three non-tourney bouts in which Herb Simmons, Lake Forest, won over Joe Anderson, Chicago, in three rounds, Eddie Peddle, Lake Forest, scored another victory when he won over Billy Campbell, Grayslake, in three rounds, and George Taylor, Waukegan, was victorious over Ralph Brown, Waukegan, in the usual three periods.

The officials: Judges—W. H. Harris and Hank Sayre, Waukegan.

Referee—George "Jabber" Young. Timekeeper—Herman Schaffer. Announcer & Matchmaker—Lem. Wallenwien.

A. A. U. Inspector—Dave Horne, Chicago.
